1. Camps for resettlers in Lower Pomerania served nearly exclusively in September 1946 as quarantine camps. After spending two weeks in these camps, the settlers are being distributed within the district. The settlers come mostly from the Border Regions of Czechoslovakia, they are mostly Catholics, hence it will be difficult to assimilate them in a purely Protestant province. The settlers brought much luggage, and besides from their clothing, bedding and provisions, also their tools. They are of good health. Everything points to the fact that the deportations from Czechoslovakia proceed in a much more humane form than the ones from the areas under Polish Administrations.

2. The following camps are in existence:

Diocese	Name of Camp	Capacity
Altentreptow	Selitz	1200
Anklam	Raupe in Anklam	500
"	Kriegeschule Anklam	1300
Barth	Barth Holz	600
Demmin	Demmin Ostkaserne	2500
"	Demmin Dövenzer Holz	200
Greifswald Stadt	Am den Wurthen	240
"	Lönsechule	420
Grimmen	Grimmen	1200
"	Vorland, Grimmen	50
"	Tribsees	600
Pasewalk	Pasewalk	12-1800
Penkun	Löcknitz Kamp	1300
Wolgast	Buddenhagen	1200

The camps, mostly former labor camps and camps for foreigners, are, with few exceptions, in a satisfactory condition. The hardships start only after the settlers leave the camp. According to local authorities, towns and rural districts in lower Pomerania are overpopulated, and housing conditions appalling. Several mayors, for example those from the Anklam region have put down in writing, that they can not accept any new settlers in their communities.
